Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Namely, it is unclear how the latch section 1111 latches onto the lid 20. It appears from the figures that these members are simply adjacent each other when the lid is placed there over. It is also unclear how the lid 20 drives the bucking section 1112. Furthermore, there appears to be no hook on hook structure 21 and it is unclear how exactly this "hook" structure engages with latch structure 111.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is misdescriptive to state that the latch structure has the boss, since the specification and figures show this structure on the upper lid.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jung (6,108,196). Jung teaches a “server rack” (Figs. 1 and 5) comprising: a base dock (110) with an upper beam (top front horizontal surface) having a latch structure (301) thereon and an upper lid (120) including a hook structure (141).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Draeger in view of Grothaus. Draeger teaches a server rack (Fig. 7) with a base dock (100) having an upper beam (center beam shown in Fig. 7) and an upper lid (143). For claims 1-6, Draeger fails to teach that there is a latch between the beam and lid. Grothaus teaches the use of a latch between a lid (A') and an adjacent structure (A) with a horizontal surface. The lid has a hook structure (D') while the horizontal structure includes a corresponding latch structure in an opening thereof with an elastic slice (c') having a buckling section at the end thereof and with a latch section (B'). The structure being attached to the horizontal structure via holes and screws (e). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the lid and upper beam of Draeger by adding latch structure thereon, such as is taught by Grothaus (an opening being added to the beam structure for the insertion of its latch structure), to provide an interior/center connecting member in the rack to better help secure the lid onto the base dock.
